SOME FEATURES OF THE LONDON STRIKE.

All persons interested in economic questions will find profit in studying the London strike, in which about 150,000 men are engaged. It is the largest strike ever known in England, and seems to be one of the most stubborn and earnest fights of this decade for an increase of wages—an increase of a penny a day. In introducing the subject, it may be well to start out with the following from the New York Tribune:

During the last political campaign our free trade friends the enemy strenuously objected to the comparisons which protectionists made between wages in England and America. Nathaniel McKay was ridiculed by them for giving the results of personal observations among British working people, and warning American laborers against the consequences of voting against protection. It was campaign buncombe, they said, equally ignorant and misleading, and those who used such arguments were trading upon the credulity of American workmen. Well, what do these availing critics think of the story of the London strike as told in the general press dispatches? Is there any campaign buncombe in the plain statement of fact that 150,000 men are out on strike because longshoremen are paid considerably less than sixpence an hour? That low rate was one of Mr. McKay's revelations which was rejected as false and partisan. He had seen thousands of these starving dock laborers hanging on to the iron gates of the London docks at half-past six in the morning and clamoring—fairly fighting among themselves—for the privilege of employment at fourpence or fivepence an hour. He related what he had seen, but the free traders rejected his testimony. Well, it is all true. The strike is for sixpence, where fivepence or less is now paid. Freight has gone up all over the world, but these wretched London longshoremen are not allowed to profit in any way by an advance that has helped dockmen and shippers. They are struggling to get an extra penny an hour in free-trade England.

It will be clearly remembered by the readers of the Gazette that this paper printed some of the statements last fall made by Mr. McKay, and that there was a general denial all along the democratic line, and attempts were made by the democratic press to make people believe that these reports were protection campaign lies. The strike removes all doubt as to the truthfulness of McKay's statement.

The strike is made by dock laborers, stevedores, river sailors and engineers. It seems that they have dock corporations that farm out the moving of freight to and from the ships on the Thames. The middlemen take the contract for moving all this freight at rates which enables them to pay reasonably good prices to the wharf laborers, but under this contract system they have reduced the price of labor to five pence per hour, and the men struck for six. The regular stevedores, carters, and lightermen did not originate the strike, but it was organized by what is known as the irregulars, men who are paid by the hour and hired to do special jobs. The middlemen are a class of contractors who have no conscience and who pay the lowest possible price for labor that their contracts may be all the more remunerative. Among this class of longshoremen there is a touching condition of poverty and wretchedness; and so the people of London who know something of this state of things, have enlisted their sympathies for the strikers; and the regular longshoremen, who receive a little better wage, have made the cause of the under-paid irregulars their own, and all have struck, determined that they will sink or swim, survive or perish together.

The leader of this strike movement is one Burns, a rank socialist, but he seems to be a man of more than ordinary marshaling, for in all the demonstrations of the tens of thousands of strikers there have been no acts of lawlessness, no disposition to descend to lawlessness, and no attempt to stop others from working. The paying of these unfortunate men five pence an hour is called the sweating system—the squeezing of wages out of the poor men for the special advantage of the middlemen who contract with the corporations to move the freight to and from the vessels; and it is no wonder that there is a bond of sympathy between the regulars and irregulars, and it is refreshing to think that the people of London have kind words and practical help for the strikers, and that in this country, the American workmen are letting their sympathy go out for the men who rightly demand that they shall not be put on starvation wages for the sole benefit of a greedy class of middlemen.

A WORTHY COMPLIMENT TO PRESIDENT STRONG.

The Evening Wisconsin of Saturday contains the following editorial article regarding William B. Strong, which the Gazette is assured its readers will read with interest and hearty endorsement:

"The resignation of Col. William B. Strong as president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company, takes out of the transportation service of the country one of the most experienced and successful railroad officers in the west. Wisconsin people especially have a just pride in Col. Strong's brilliant career because he was for many years a resident of this state, and he has still thousands of personal friends in the Badger state who will continue to claim him as a Wisconsin product, no matter where he may reside.

"His career as a railroad man has been exceptionally successful, eventful and honorable. His life is an object lesson for the young men to study who are looking to railroading as a permanent business. President Strong began his railroad service at the foot of the ladder, where such men as the late S. Merrill, of the St. Paul, Marvin Hughitt, of the

A SOUTHERN RACE WAR.

ARMED NEGROES MARCHED AT MINTER CITY, MISS.

The Governor and Several Companies of Troops Leave for the Scene of the Trouble—Crimes.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 2.—The Governor was advised Sunday by the sheriff of Le Flore county that 500 armed negroes had collected and that all efforts to disband them were futile and to send aid as once. The Governor left on a special train accompanied by the Capital Light guards. Companies from Grenada, Winona, and Durant are also there. The difficulty is said to have been started by Oliver Cromwell, an ex-convict and a desperate negro.

The seat of trouble is Minter City, at which point there is no telegraph. The nearest telegraph station is Greenwood, which has but one wire, and that is down today, so that it is difficult to get particulars.

GREENADA, Miss., Sept. 2.—A telegram was received here Sunday saying that negroes were marching near Shell Mound, Le Flore county, Miss., and that a conflict between whites and blacks was expected. Help was called for, as the negroes outnumbered the whites six to one. A volunteer company of about forty men was raised here in an hour or two and left for the scene of the trouble under the command of the Hon. J. C. Longstreet. Another company of cavalry left here at night. A dispatch received from J. C. Longstreet and C. L. Townes asks that all available men through the county be sent at once. By order of the Governor the Winona rifles, accompanied by several citizens, left on a special train for Greenwood, from which place they will go to Shell Mound to aid in suppressing the trouble.

WAR IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Whites and Blacks Aranged Against Each Other and Grave Trouble Feared.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 2.—There is a good deal of anxiety over the news of the threatened race war in the New River valley, Fayette county. Information from the scene of the threatened trouble is meager, but it is of such a nature as to give rise to fears that a serious breach of the peace will occur. The trouble seems to have had its origin Friday evening, when a negro went into the store of Henry Cooper & Co., at Echo, and brandishing a club, threatened to 'do up' the entire force of employees. All efforts to pacify him were futile and none of the clerks, after receiving a blow from the club, drew a revolver on the negro, killing him instantly. Echo is the center of a considerable colored population and last night information was received at Charleston that a mob of negroes had collected on New river, and that a concerted onslaught on the whites was in contemplation. Orders were also received by the Charleston hardware store for the Winchester rifles available, and a considerable shipment of these arms was made. Citizens of Charleston were also gathering and it was apprehended the military would be ordered out.

THE ROBBER CAUGHT.

Marshall Glade of Republic, Mich., Arrests the Gogebic Highwayman.

ROPER, Mich., Sept. 2.—Reimund Holzhay, the "One high wagon" robber, has been captured by a posse of men from the northwestern Wisconsin for five months past, sacking trains, waylaying stage coaches, and robbing pedestrians, is in custody. He was captured here Saturday morning by City Marshal Glade and Justice of the Peace Wesler, and will be taken to Bessemer to be tried for the murder of Fleischbein at Gogebic last Monday.

Holzhay confesses to all the stage and train robberies. He came here Friday evening and put up at the Republic house. The police officers in the vicinity had been furnished with a description of the man, and when he entered Republic he was at once placed under surveillance on suspicion that he was the man wanted.

The capture was made without a struggle. At 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning, as Marshal Glade and Justice E. E. Wesler were walking down the street from their homes near the railroad depot, they met the man, who was roughly dressed, and apparently anxious to escape attention.

The marshal immediately stepped in front of him saying, "I want you." The stranger whipped his hand to his hip pocket, but before he could draw a revolver he was seized by Marshal Glade's arm. The man was taken to the village jail and recovered consciousness on the way. He was searched and three revolvers, three gold watches, four pocket-books, and other articles were found on his person. One pocketbook bore the name of Reimund Holzhay, the robber's supposed name. He broke down under examination and acknowledged committing the robbery of the Milwaukee & Northern train at Ellis Junction last May and the robbery at Lake Gogebic on Monday last. He was taken to the county jail at Marquette for safe keeping. His arrestment is manifested in the circles through which he passed, but no violence is apprehended.

THE CHRONIN TRIAL.

The Slow Work of Getting a Jury Going

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The weary work of selecting a jury of twelve intelligent men who had formed no opinion in the world-celebrated Cronin murder case is fairly unending. The four jurors who had been half tried Friday and had so far successfully passed the ordeal were brought out of their confinement. Bigley was challenged for cause the first thing Saturday morning because he wasn't sure about the weight of circumstantial evidence.

The court thought the cause was not sufficient and explained that circumstantial evidence must be as positive as direct evidence. Then, after a good deal of fencing, Judge Longenecker asked Mr. Bigley if he would hesitate to inflict the death penalty upon all or any one of the prisoners if the evidence was wholly circumstantial.

"I don't think I could vote to hang a man on purely circumstantial evidence," was Mr. Bigley's answer.

The upshot of the whole matter was that Bigley was excused for cause. Judge McConnell objected to the question asked by the State's Attorney. It tried to define to the jury two kinds of evidence, when the law recognized only evidence adequate to convict. The only point was, so the court said, whether the jury would vote to inflict the death penalty if he were convinced of the guilt of the defendants, no matter by what kind of evidence. The State's Attorney maintained that while there are people who at all times have conscientious scruples against inflicting the death penalty, there is also a class of people who have scruples against the infliction of the death penalty on evidence purely circumstantial.

Forrest sided with the court and declared that the State's question was practically directed toward plunging the jury to a certain course of action in this particular case.

ROPED IN BY 'BUD' GUION.

Cornelius C. Quinlan Swindled Out of $20,000 by a Chicago Man.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2.—Chief of Police Spears wants "Bud" Guion, a Chicago gambler, who came to Kansas City a week ago and registered at one of the prominent hotels. It is said that he was a cattle buyer from New York. "Cornelius C. Quinlan, one of the most prominent sellers of cattle in the Southwest, with headquarters in this city, was stopping at the same hotel and cultivated the acquaintance of Guion. Guion proposed a game of poker. Mr. Quinlan, who is something of a poker player himself, went to Mr. Guion's room. Among the furniture there was a handsome inlaid table, a present, Guion said, which he prized very highly. The poker game was played on this table.

The first night Mr. Quinlan lost his ready cash. The next night he went 'cheered' with $13,000 in cash and went away without it. The third night $4,000 in cash was won by Guion, together with a like amount in promissory notes. Quinlan's watch and chain, two diamond studs and a diamond ring. The Kansas City man became suspicious then and the next morning he notified the chief of police that he had been swindled. Guion had fled and now it is alleged that the inlaid table assisted him to a marked degree in winning twenty-odd thousand dollars from Mr. Quinlan.

WEALTHY FARMER MURDERED.

Mrs. Holmes Accused of Taking the Life of Her Husband.

HASTINGS, Minn., Sept. 2.—Samuel Holmes, a well-to-do farmer, living near Farmington, this county, was murdered Sunday morning. His wife, who is now in jail here, is charged with the deed. Early Sunday morning Charles Haines, a neighbor, was passing the Holmes home, when he saw Mrs. Holmes standing on the front porch screaming and wringing her hands. She said her husband had been murdered and took Haines into the house, where he found the body of Holmes lying on the floor in a pool of blood. There was a terrible gash in the center of the head, and another on the right arm near the shoulder. Haines led the woman with the body, and hastening to Farmington informed the authorities, who went to the farm, placed her under arrest, and took charge of the body. So far as is known there was no witness to the murder. It is said that Mrs. Holmes had quarreled with her husband and frequently threatened his life. Holmes was 65 years of age, and his wife twenty years his senior.
